

EDUCATION EVOLVED

Economics

How is Economics different from Business Studies?

Economics focuses upon the interaction of consumers, producers and government in society. Business Studies focuses on the individual firm and the departments within it, e.g. Human Resources, Marketing, Finance etc.

Do I need to be good at Maths to study Economics?

You need the standard college entry requirements. Economics at A-Level is more of a humanities-based subject with Maths content limited to percentage changes and reading of graphs.

Does it matter if I have not studied Economics at GCSE?

No, very few students would have studied Economics at GCSE.